Guide to Residence Living

Welcome to Southern Union State Community College and your residential community! It is our mission to provide a residence life program that fosters community and the growth of each individual. We want our students to make the residential hall their home away from home. It is our belief that you will find your place at Southern Union and enhance your community through joining its goals and purposes. This guide is provided so that you may know the policies, procedures, and information relative to residential life at Southern Union. Please read this information carefully and keep it on hand for easy reference. As a responsible member of the SU Residence Life community, every resident will be responsible for becoming familiar with the all residential policy and procedure. We hope that this year is full of personal growth and educational accomplishments. The residential community is an environment where you can live and learn. We ask that you allow the Residence Hall Staff to assist you in the community, and know that we are here to support you!

Student Rights and Responsibilities

ACUHO-1 Statement of Resident's Rights and Responsibilities

Students in college housing facilities possess specific individual and group rights while engaged in activities that are part of college life. With these rights, residents have reciprocal responsibilities to ensure these same rights for other residents. Housing personnel should educate residents regarding these rights and responsibilities that are concerning resident welfare and behavior. The following statements define minimal expectations regarding these rights and responsibilities.

Residents have the right... • To have reasonable access to their living accommodations based on a published schedule of occupancy. • To live in a clean and secure environment. • To facilities and programs that support the pursuit of academic success. • To expect a regionally competitive price on housing accommodations and/or food service. • To have access to written copies of college housing rules and regulations, or individual building policies that govern individual and group behavior. • To respect and safety of personal property. • To study without interruption or interference. • To be free from unreasonable noise. • To be free of intimidation or harassment. • To express themselves freely within established guidelines • To expect enforcement of housing agreement/contract. • To have direct access to staff who provide assistance, guidance, and support as needed. • To host guests, within established guidelines. • To receive equitable treatment when behavior is in question. • To enjoy individual freedoms regardless of race, ethnicity, sex, national origin, disability, age, religion, sexual orientation, or political affiliation. • To participate in resident governmental bodies, and housing departmental committees. • To have access to individual and group social, educational, and developmental opportunities in their living community.

Residents have the responsibility... • To adhere to rules and regulations • To comply with reasonable request made by staff, or college officials, or fellow residents. • To monitor and accept responsibility for behavior of guest. • To report violations of rules and regulations to appropriate staff. • To respect the rights of others, and stated above. • To respect the diverse backgrounds and interest of those others who are different from them. • To treat others in civil manner and manage conflict in a mature manner. • To be serious in their academic pursuits. • To participate actively in self-governance. • To participate in housing departmental committees as requested and mandatory meetings. • To express themselves individually, or by association with groups. • To participate in judicial proceedings to determine appropriate standards of behavior. • To contribute positively to the community by participating in educational and developmental activities.
